Apologies for the lack of response, but I'm not available to the District Council on a full-time basis as I also work at another local authority.

There is a slight error on the plan - the proposal is to extend the existing 2pm-3pm yellow line by 2m and to shorten the existing double yellow lines by the same. This allows a car to park on the single yellow line at the end of the double yellows without overhanging or impinging the access to the driveways between no's 65 and 67.

I hope this clarifies things for you.

For the attention of Andy Bracey

I have left message requesting you phone me back.

Please could you confirm that the proposed 2m reduction of yellow lines in Robyn's Way and extension of single yellow is a continuation of the no waiting Mon-Fri existing 2-3pm, as it would seem pointless for a 2m stretch to be of different waiting time, as this is not entirely clear on your plan.

Your early response would be much appreciated.

Re: Robyns Way changes

I have absolutely no problem with the proposed amendment to parking in my road
I fully appreciate my immediate neighbours' concerns and fully support them

Dear Andy

Re: Potential changes to parking restrictions:

Robyns Way: Nos: 63 & 65

2013 Amend 2 inf-12-Ack

Thank you for your most recent correspondence relating to the above matter and please find enclosed my form duly filled in with any relevant comments.

Unfortunately, despite my request for an answer, your correspondence didn't answer a query I had at the end of my previous letter, sent on 23rd October. I would be extremely grateful if you could provide me with an answer, not only in relation to this particular issue, but from a personal point of view, for my future reference.

One further query in relation to not only this parking issue, where line restrictions are concerned: What does the Highway Code of government rules say/state re what part of the car is considered to be infringing the rules, re where it sits in relation to the lines? Is it the bumper or the wheels that mustn't be over the end of any line? This is another aspect relating to my neighbour's parking! I have tried to find the answer on the internet, but to no avail.

I look forward to your personal reply in due course.

Yours sincerely

If you wish to comment on the proposals, please return this completed form by 7th December 2014.
